INSIGHT SUBMISSION REQUIREMENTS

OVERVIEW

Insight Medical Student Research Journal is a student-produced journal that showcases outstanding research from IUSM medical students. Our mission is two-fold: to provide an opportunity for medical students passionate about research to publish their work, and to complement the IUSM emphasis on scientific inquiry and research.

As the only peer- and faculty-reviewed journal of medical student research at IUSM, Insight serves to introduce medical students to the review and publication processes indicative of the research world. Insight also serves as an opportunity for those interested in research to communicate with student and faculty colleagues to help develop skills and competence in research.

Research papers and abstracts must be the independent work of the author. Multiple authorships / co-authorships are permitted. The research must have been performed while the author was a medical student at IUSM. Thus, authors are allowed to submit works conducted at other institutions as long as they were a medical student at IUSM at the time.

Authors who publish in Insight maintain the right to present their research and ideas in any form, in whole or in part, in any other conference or publication. Contributors should be aware, however, that many other academic journals and conferences require exclusive rights to published ideas. Insight simply maintains the non-exclusive right to produce or reproduce published articles.
